The dictionary defines the word welfare as "Health, happiness, and good fortune; well-being".

You have arrived here because, somewhere along your path in life, you decided that the welfare of others is at least as important as your own.

For some, basic human welfare has been destroyed by the horrible violence of war. Not only has their "health, happiness and well being" been stolen, but even their access to basic human necessities has been taken away.

Imagine how you would feel, seeing the terror in your children's eyes as your family is forced to flee your home in the midst of violence, bombs, or the approach of soldiers who mean to end your lives? Imagine how much greater the anguish if, in the midst of all that chaos, you witnessed family members lose their lives. Now imagine that the personal devastation doesn't end there. Although the immediate threat of danger might be over, your war shocked family is now forced to wander, with nowhere to go, no food, and only the clothes on their backs.

Tens of thousands of families can only wish they were imagining those awful scenarios, but instead, it is a nightmarish reality they are facing as you read this. For most of these families, their only hope is relief organizations that provide shelter, food, clothing, medicine, and counseling to help them recover their shattered lives.

Here's What YOU Can Do...

Even a modest donation can make a real difference in the lives of these families. Just $5 shelters and feeds one refugee for one day.

You can spend more than that on a latte.

That's a cliché, I know. But most of us do know we have things that we spend money on each month that we don't always need. That's not to say there's anything wrong with that. We all need "distractions" now and again to help us deal with our often stressful and complicated lives. But imagine how much more stressful and complicated your life would feel if you were in the circumstances of the families we are talking about.

So here's the question:

How does the feeling of knowing that you are helping real families in real need, compare with the feeling of drinking that extra latte, or buying that new lamp, or anything else you might spend just some of your disposable income on?
